

ABSTRACT

A two-stage amplifier includes a first stage and a second stage that are DC-connected through a coupling capacitor  $C_p$ . A charge pump generates a bias voltage  $V_p$  that is applied across the coupling capacitor  $C_p$  leads to maintain the time average of the voltage across said

5 coupling capacitor constant.